

As of Sunday, June 17th, we have 52 classmates signed up for the reunion. Of course, the below list does not include their guests. Please expect to see updates on the website every weekend till the reunion is held.

The RSVP campaign is still in its earliest stages, but we expect to see many more envelopes arriving as we approach the July 14th cutoff date for the Early Bird discount.

As previously mentioned, persons wanting to attend the Friday night reception event at the Washington Park Grill will want to monitor the attendance level due to the limited capacity of the venue. Right now, there are 59 people signed up and once we reach 90 people, we will have to close out the list.

Your official invitation contained a list of 113 classmates that donated money to ensure that all classmates would at least be able to attend the Sunday Open House at no cost. The below 29 people have recently added donations to this fund. In fact, some folks have made at least two donations in the past two years.

Now is the time to hear from classmates who are needing a little help or if they know someone who would like to attend but might not be able to, due to insufficient funds or transportation problems.

The reunion committee had received a request from a female classmate who is interested in renting a spare bedroom rather than staying in a hotel. Another classmate generously provided their guest room.

I am sure that many other classmates are a little apprehensive about the cost and/or shortcomings of today's commercial lodging. If you live in the Metro area and would like to open your doors to a classmate, please let Bill Wiederspan know. His email address is bill@wiederspanfamily.com

I am sure that many of the website's visitors are tired of reading the request for "NOW" photos, but it is important that as many personal profiles be as accurate as possible before the reunion. The reunion committee has no plans to produce a Memory Book for this event, since the website serves as a much better means for this purpose. If you do not have a recent photo posted on your profile, please send Bill Wiederspan a copy and he will upload it.

In past bulk mailings, the reunion committee would receive all rejected envelopes that could not be delivered by the Post Office. When we learned that something could not be delivered, we would do additional research and re-mail another envelope.

Unfortunately, we discovered that the printshop failed to include the ancillary statement "Address Service Requested" to the envelope. Therefore, we will not be receiving notice of failed deliveries.

If you did not receive an invitation in early May, please let us know so that we might send you a copy.
