Hurrying back from Sumter a month ago, I was passing Lower Richland High School, and noticed that it was almost unrecognizable. So I slowed down. Then, strangely, time seemed to reverse itself. Suddenly, I pictured Mrs. Higgins saying, "I realize you don't care much for reading, but here's a book you'll love." And she handed me a copy of Jack London's, Call Of The Wild. It gave direction to my life. Then, I thought back to a day in 1965 when Mrs. Andrews excitedly announced to class, "Scientists just proved that plate tectonics are real – the continents really were once joined together!" In one sentence she helped inspire a love for science that I still enjoy today. Finally, I recalled Coach Player asking me, "What do you want to do with your life?" When I told him, he said very seriously, "Pay the up front price, work and train hard, and you can do anything you want." I believed him, and did exactly what he said. Today, he's one of my heros. They all are.

Watching the school grow smaller in my rear view mirror, I realized just how fortunate I was to be in that place, at that time.

Join us as we pay homage to Lower Richland High School, its teachers, coaches, and the lifelong friends we made.

Dear Classmates,

Many of the farms, the buildings, and the people we knew and loved have disappeared from the Lower Richland landscape. But history lives on, like strands of DNA in our memories, linking us to that special time and place.
